

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

VOL. XVII.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1895.

NO. 73.

STACY, ADAMS & CO.'S

SAMPLE LINE OF

Men's Fine Hand-made
SHOES.

COMPRISING

Every NEW and STYLISH SHAPE
In Every Kind of Material.

Patent Leather,
English Enamel,
Cordovan,
French Calf,
Box Calf,
Kangaroo,
Vici Kid,
English Grain,

Just Received.

Sizes 6, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$, 7, 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ Only.

J. H. Anderson & Co.

HATS.

Gents Shoes.

We are offering some bargains in Congress, also in Lace Opera Toes. These shoes are worth $2.50 at present values—old price $2.00—but until the lot is sold will sell at $1.75. Only a few remember.

OUR LINE IS IMMENSE for the fall in all grades. Emphatically advanced in price. Early buying placed us in position to save shoe buyers of Christian county and others much money, and we do it. "Come and see."

Ladies Shoes.

One lot Ladies Shoes worth $2.50, present value until sold, at $1.75. Only a few remember! They go fast at $1.75.

CAPS.

For a Few Days

IMMENSE CUTS

On

HATS and CAPS,

MILLER'S
and

DUNLAP'S

NEW SHAPES

are included in this cut, but no Stetson's.

See Our Line

FURNISHING GOODS.

CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

Kines on Trial.—The Fair This Week—Heavy Damages—Nashville Election—A Double Wedding—Other Local Matters.

Dr. Clardy at Morganfield.

Dr. J. D. Clardy, of Hopkinsville, and congressman of the Second District, spoke in the court house in this city last Monday afternoon to a fairly good crowd. The Doctor exhorted the Democrats to go to the polls in November and vote. He showed what danger threatened the party if every Democrat who could did not go to the polls and support the ticket. Reading a report given by Republicans in New York giving the constitutional rights in theatres, hotels and public places with the whites, he graphically and impressively pictured what such a law would mean in this State. Mr. Bradley said he was not in favor of a law of that character, but if elected influences might be brought to bear on him which would cause him change his mind. Altogether the speech was calculated to do the state ticket much good.—Morganfield Sun.

That Eclipse a Fake.

Somebody has worked a fake eclipse of the moon on the press of the State. At least one-half of the papers of Kentucky have announced that there would be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of the 17th instant. Some of these papers have gone so far as to give the exact hour and minute of the occurrence. The truth is, there will be no eclipse of the moon at the time mentioned. A moment's thought will convince anyone of this fact. On the day named there will be a new moon and an eclipse of that luminary can never occur except when in full. For the time being the eclipse is off and we can not promise one of the moon until some time next year.—Hustler.

The Rabbits Got Away.

Fifteen members of the Hopkinsville Gun Club were out in a field near the city Friday afternoon practicing for the "shoot" at the fair next Thursday. A dog that happened to them began to nose around in the bushes and soon jumped up to the rabbits after another. Although all of the sportsmen are fond of rabbits, the cottontails quietly hopped away and all of them made their escape from the whole club of crack shots. The joke seems to be on the brag shooters, who expect to down Henderson this week.

Mr. McCartney's Family Arrives.

Mrs. Livingstone McCartney arrived from Nebraska Friday evening to join her husband, and the popular new Superintendent has gone to housekeeping with his family in a portion of the Campbell mansion on South Main street. Mr. McCartney is proving to be an excellent man for the position of Superintendent of the Hopkinsville Schools, and his arrival will make many friends by his agreeable manners and courteous bearing. His wife and children will receive a cordial welcome to the city from all our people.

Yesterday's Shoot of the Gun Club.

Quite a large number of the members of the Gun Club were out in a field near the city Friday afternoon practicing for the "shoot" at the fair next Thursday. A dog that happened to them began to nose around in the bushes and soon jumped up to the rabbits after another. Although all of the sportsmen are fond of rabbits, the cottontails quietly hopped away and all of them made their escape from the whole club of crack shots. The joke seems to be on the brag shooters, who expect to down Henderson this week.

Heavy Damages Assured.

Jno. W. Smith, the Elkhorn livery man who was shot and seriously wounded last summer by Chas. Lewis, has filed suit for damages against Lewis to the amount of $2,500. The miller and the facts in the case are of the opinion that Smith will recover damages.

Noe Christian Convicted.

At the last term of court, just closed at Madisonville, Nels Christopher, a corn doctor, who at one time made his home in this city, was convicted of attempted rape on a colored child. The jury gave him 12 years in the pen.

Double Wedding Solemnized.

At the residence of Mr. Jno. Renshaw, a few miles north of Crofton, last Monday night, Rev. G. W. Davis united two couples in the holy bonds of matrimony. The were Jas. M. J. McLeod to Willis Hamby, and Alie Bowling to Carrie Renshaw.

Sixteen Inquests in Nine Months.

Cornor Jas. L. Allenworth, since he went into office the first of last January, has been called upon to hold sixteen inquests in cases of sudden or violent deaths.

Doc and Jim Dowery, cousins, living near Valley View, fought an impromptu duel as the result of a drunken quarrel, and both were probably fatally injured.

THE MEETING OVER.

Sam Staid Only Four Days With Us This Time.

The Sam Jones meeting, the third of the season, came to an end yesterday afternoon. It lasted nine days. Revs. Stewart and Culpepper began the meeting on the 6th and kept it going until Sam Jones arrived on the 11th. Since Friday, Mr. Jones has preached twice a day, preceding seven sermons in all. The last services were yesterday. Many business houses closed at his request and the schools all suspended at both services and the big tabernacle was densely packed.

Indeed great crowds were on hand at all of the meetings, but there was a loss of the old time enthusiasm. There was much disappointment that Sam Jones only spent four days in the meeting.

His greatest good was established by the meeting was clearing the tabernacle of debt. With a mortgaged debt of $3,000 and $500 in claims, it was in bad shape, but Sam got $200 straight after the crowd Sunday that $2160 was subscribed, and more was raised at subsequent meetings. If the general debt of the tabernacle was so greatly reduced that the tabernacle ought to get along much better in the future.

The Nashville Election.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 10.—To-day witnessed the most exciting and closely contested city election ever held in Nashville. There were only two tickets in the field, the straight Democratic ticket, headed by Geo. B. Clark, the incumbent, who was re-nominated for Mayor, and the American Protective Association ticket, headed by W. F. McCarthy. There was no Republican ticket in the field, and the other class of Republicans voted the straight Democratic ticket, while the colored voters nearly all voted the A. P. A. ticket.

The A. P. A. is largely composed of Democrats who are dissatisfied with the management of the city, and were determined to overthrow the existing management, which they are pleased to denounce as the ring.

The entire A. P. A. ticket was elected, including W. M. McCarthy, Mayor, and ten councilmen, by majorities which will probably average one thousand. Four wards are still to be heard at 11 o'clock.

The proposition for the city to subscribe $100,000 to the Centennial Exposition carried by a vote of nearly twenty to one.

Kentucky's Vote.

For the benefit of our readers we publish the vote of Kentucky at all the presidential elections from 1872 to 1892, and the elections for governor for 1883, 1887 and 1891:

PRESIDENTIAL.

	Dem.	Rep.
1872.....	101,112	88,817
1876.....	159,690	97,156
1880.....	149,699	104,531
1884.....	152,763	118,763
1888.....	183,800	155,134
1892.....	185,461	135,441

GUBERNATORIAL.

	Dem.	Rep.
1888, Knott.	138,615.	Mortow.
1887, Buckner	144,619.	Bellard.
1891, Brown.	144,168.	Wood.

1891, Brown. 144,168. Wood. 116,087

Kines on Trial for Murder.

In the Circuit Court yesterday the case of James Kline, colored, charged with the wilful murder of W. V. Adams, section boss for the L. and N. railroad at Gracey, was called for trial, and most of the day was taken up in getting a jury in the case.

The trial will be remembered as a specially cold-blooded and brutal one. Because of being dismissed from work by Adams, and having some words over his payment, Kline assaulted Adams and stabbed him to death. Austin L. Peay and W. F. Fowler are attorneys for Kline.

The Fair This Week.

The fair which begins Thursday is the great event for this week. With the favorable weather it bids fair to be largely attended. On the first day the children will be admitted free, and this will, of course, insure a big crowd. The program will be very attractive and everybody should turn out.

A New Professor.

The Board of Trustees of the Hopkinsville colored Schools recently elected Prof. Maxwell, of Louisville, to succeed Prof. A. H. Payne, and the school opened in the enlarged building a few days ago with a full attendance.

If the trial of Miss Cammie Russell comes to a dead heat at 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening Oct. 13, 1895, from a pistol shot wound in her right temple, she will die.

It is believed that Miss Cammie Russell came to her death about 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening Oct. 13, 1895, from a pistol shot wound in her right temple, but she will die.

HOBBLES TRAGEDY.

A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG GIRL KILLED SUNDAY EVENING.

Late Developments Show That It Was Suicide—Letters Found That Remove All Doubt—The Coroner's Verdict—The Heart-rending Story.

I am unable to determine whether the shot was fired with suicidal intent, or for the rest of me with care, but I hold firmly to the loaded pistol.

The unfortunate young girl was the youngest daughter of Mr. Jas. D. Russell, vice-president of Planter's Bank, and one of Hopkinsville's most prominent citizens, who came here from Clarksville seventeen years ago. Miss Cammie was born in Clarksville in 1878, and is now 16 years and two months old. She was the youngest of a family of four children and was of a bright, happy disposition, with a pleasant smile and a jolly word for all her friends, and a universal favorite wherever known. Her sister, Miss Bessie, is at school in Clarksville, and is expected to graduate next June. Miss Cammie was a pupil in the High School department of the public school, her father being president of the school board, and she would have graduated next June.

Surrounded by the luxuries and comforts of a happy home, with friends and relatives without equals, brothers and sisters, with nothing but brightness in her future, it seems incredible that she could have taken her own life.

Nothing that has occurred in the city for years has so shocked the public and caused such universal interest as the death of Miss Cammie Russell. She was the most prominent in the city, the affair happened in the most fashionable residence portion of the city, and in such a shocking manner that it spread like wildfire over the entire town and delayed the services at the tabernacle, while the excited people stood in groups on the streets and discussed the details.

At this writing it is not settled when the interment will take place, but it will be sometime to day, if her sister arrives on the 9:52 train. The heartfelt sympathies of the whole community go out in condolence and sorrow to the bereaved family in their great affliction.

It is decided to have the funeral at the Ninth Street Presbyterian Church at 2:30 o'clock afternoon.

New Officers Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows concluded its session at Bowling Green last week and elected the following officers:

Dr. C. P. Meredith, of Eminence, Grand Master.

C. T. Kline, of Winchester, Grand Grand Master.

H. J. Strong, of Richmond, Grand Secretary.

Geo. W. Morris, of Louisville, Grand Treasurer.

Frank Guant, of Petersburg, Grand Representative.

Rev. S. X. Hall, who was within thirteen votes of being Grand Master, and was placed in nomination for that office, the election of which takes place at the next annual session.

The Coming Event of the Fair.

The match to be shot between the Henderson and Hopkinsville clubs next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. will be the drawing card of the fair. Quite an interest is being manifested by all classes in the shoot, and if the weather is fair, there will be a large crowd present. The club is practicing every day, and will be in good trim to meet their contestants. All who can get off should go out Thursday afternoon, encourage the fair, and welcome the Henderson boys.

MATRIMONIAL.

WOODBURN-BOYD.—Mr. E. W. Woodburn and Miss Mattie Boyd, both of this country, eloped to Clarksville last Thursday and were married at the First Methodist church in that place. They were accompanied by several couples of young friends. After the ceremony the party returned home, arriving early in the night.

MADE AGE LICENSES.

License issued to the following couples for marriage:

Jas. Hopson and Lilly Johnson.

Dr. J. Quarles and Frances Fields.

Oscar Myers and Alice Morrison.

DEATHS.

HARKINS.—Bud Harkins died at his home near Johnson's, Friday, of consumption, aged about 35 years.

POOL.—David Pool, a well-known man, died at the residence of his father, George Pool, near this city, after a lingering illness of typhoid fever, aged about 25 years.

COLORED.

CHAPIN.—Cloid Chapin, aged nine years, died in the city Friday of fever.

Miss Stella West, one of the most prominent young society leaders of Savannah, accidentally shot and killed herself Sunday at the country residence of her parents at Montgomery.

Henry Porter and Olivia Howard, aged eighteen and fifteen, respectively, eloped from Hyden, and after riding eighty miles on horseback were married in Virginia.

→Petree & Co.←

COUNTESS GLEICHEN.

Her Work as a Sculptor Is Really Remarkable.

Her Professional Studies Have Been Pursued Entirely in England—Her Travels Through Europe—A Stirring Picture of Satan.

A writer in the Lady's Pictorial, a class London publication, remarks that there is an unpretending door in a quiet corner, a leaded construction adjoining it, which looks upon what it more or less like a workshop, the work of which would seem to escape the suspicion of the many hundreds of persons of all degrees who daily and hourly pass by. Those who have no previous knowledge of this corner often need a detailed direction to find it. Yet it is part of a royal palace, the opposite side of the same road by which another royal residence is approached, and which a stone's throw of the most important center of the club life of London.

The palace is St. James, the royal residence, Marlborough house, and the like, where the Queen and her suite, who prepare the marble for Countess Feodore Gleichen, whose studio is reached through the small door where, we may truthfully say, great things have risen from small premises.

Here the young Countess Feodore is employing all her time and energies, as quite a child so marked a taste and talent for sculpture and art that she was never so happy as when she could escape to her father's studio and then indulge her preference for art over the cultivation of any other form of study.

Her father, Prince Charles of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, was better known as Count Gleichen. The prince was a distinguished naval officer, and had seen considerable active service, both in the Crimes and in China; but on retiring from the navy he turned his talents to the study of art, and liking for sculpture which he had always had, and from that time he worked as a professional sculptor, with a success on which there is no need here to dwell, when readers can recall the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

A FATHER'S TEMERITY.

Brought a Lion with His Sons to Balance His Child.

An English missionary in Africa was sitting in his study door when he saw a party of natives approaching. They were bringing to him a boy whose head was covered with a piece of calico, on removing which the missionary saw two deep furrows, one on each side of the scalp. The boy had been laid beside a lion's den a few evenings before, said the Yonah's Companion. The boy had been brought to the Englishman for treatment, and while he did what he could for the sufferer the men related what the missionary had heard of the curious legend of the lion's den.

The party were on their way to the coast, and at night had made fires and lain down to sleep. Suddenly they were awakened by the deep growls of a lion. It had leaped among them, and had nearly seized a boy, whose screams mingled with the horrid growls of his captor.

The men ran this way and that in their terror, each thinking of his own safety. Not so the boy's father. He was big and strong, and besides, it was his son who was screaming. He had no time to think of so minute a detail, but sprang at the lion, and struck it again and again till all the uttering fierce cries of anger.

The lion was cowed; it relinquished its hold of the boy, and sprang away into the darkness, leaving the father with his bleeding son in his arms.

The scattered company came together again, replenished the fires, and took care of the lad's wounds as best they could. Now they had brought him to the Yonah's Companion, who washed his wounds with camphor, dressed them, and bound them up. The patient was doing well when the missionary last saw him, more than a week later.

ONE AMERICAN IN SIAM.

Sent as a Missionary, He Became the King's Counselor.

There died in Siam a few days ago an American named Marian A. Cheek, who had been a missionary teacher for twenty-two years, and at the time of his death was one of the most distinguished and influential men in that land, says the Boston Globe.

Sent there twenty-two years ago as a medical missionary under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, at the age of twenty years, he gradually rose in power and wealth until he became the most intimate counselor of the Siamese king.

Mr. Cheek left a family consisting of a wife and four children, who have resided in Oakland for the last two years. Mr. Cheek recently announced his retirement after twenty-two years, and at the time of his death was one of the most distinguished and influential men in that land, says the Boston Globe.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

the numerous works, both in statues and in life-size busts, which the prince has left as evidence of his power and of his industry.

On finding the decided bent of his daughter to follow in her path, she desired to work seriously, under the drudgery and hard study indispensable in order to become a real artist, he would help her in every way; but that he would not allow her to waste her time by "playing" at art to the exclusion of her learning; in short, that she must do her best to become a true artist or give it up.

Countess Feodore chose the harder but decidedly better part, and there soon began the routine of work and study modeling in her father's studio, taking up drawing, painting, and when only sixteen she exhibited in the Grosvenor gallery the statuette of a monk, which was her first piece of sculpture, and for which she obtained an order. A few months later she went to Paris, and there, but to see its galleries and art collections.

She joined the Slade school at the age of seventeen, studying very hard there under Prof. Legros, having instruction in all the different branches of art, and also in coloring, for which she has also made more decided than any other student in the school, with that for sculpture. Her professional study has been accomplished entirely in England, though her parents have been enabled to make several journeys to Rome and to visit those cities on the continent which contain the most valuable art collections.

From the time her first work was seen in public, Countess Feodore Gleichen pursued her labors in the studio, and continued to exhibit in the Royal academy, the Grosvenor, and the New galleries, besides, exhibitions of the paintings of the Painter Etchers' society, of which she was a fellow. She has won the prize given at the Slade school for a medal, and was chosen from among the other contestants to do the modeling of the statue of Lady Godiva-Duff. To last year's exhibition at Burlington house Countess Feodore Gleichen sent a remarkable figure of Satan, the form of which was suggested to her imagination by Milton's "Paradise Lost."

"SATAN."

AN AGED PENSIONER.

Happy Declining Years of a Street Car Horse.

Yankee-Dago Has Outlived Five Generations of Brother and Sister Car Horses—How He Got His Two Precious Names.

There is a horse on the North side whom it would be hard to convince that big corporations have no souls. That soul, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, has two names, Yankee-Dago, and his brother the pensioned property of the North Chicago Street Railroad company. One does not have to go far to find the reason for Yankee-Dago's present easy lot in life, nor when found will it appear strange that even a street railroad company should do something to ease the last years of so intelligent a horse. A servant, William Burt, the barn foreman at Elm and Clark streets, has been Yankee's intimate friend for twenty years, and will tell a caller all about the horse and give an introduction as well as provide a ticket to a service at the stable. Burt is not the only one to call Dago his friend; he is called by his master, his stable, his drivers, and his stable-mates.

The man ran this way and that in their terror, each thinking of his own safety. Not so the boy's father. He was big and strong, and besides, it was his son who was screaming. He had no time to think of so minute a detail, but sprang at the lion, and struck it again and again till all the uttering fierce cries of anger.

The lion was cowed; it relinquished its hold of the boy, and sprang away into the darkness, leaving the father with his bleeding son in his arms.

The scattered company came together again, replenished the fires, and took care of the lad's wounds as best they could. Now they had brought him to the Yonah's Companion, who washed his wounds with camphor, dressed them, and bound them up. The patient was doing well when the missionary last saw him, more than a week later.

TALBOT SADDLES.

Yankee-Dago gave the old pensioner the name of Yankee not long ago because "he had been so long in the land." The tow boy had called him Dago years before because when he was stationed at State street to help pull logs, which were piled up, he was a constant source of annoyance and the equally constant source of wrath of the Italians who drove fruit wagons.

Dago had an ever-living desire to eat bananas. He would stand in his place at the corner and look up to every wagon and panel truck that came along, filled with bananas, and come along the middle of the street, open his mouth, and nip off such fruit as pleased his fancy. Then he would go back placidly, the tail wagging, towing Dago's teeth like those of a squirrel, and age has not injured their efficiency.

For a number of years the old horse was kept in a barn further north on Clark street. He was finally moved to the site of his present quarters when he had to be stabled, which is for three months, and the stable caught fire at night. The men loosened the horses and began leading them out. One of the men grabbed Dago. "Leave him alone," yelled the foreman, "take another horse; he is fit for his age, you want."

So he did. He walked out of the stall calmly, and having reached the street started north to the old barn, where he had not been for three years. Arriving there he stood at the door until it was opened, and then he quietly walked in, closed, undid, and fastened his stall, which is about 12x14, vacant.

Dago's quarters at present, are a good deal smaller, but he is still fit. He does not kick nor bite, and he has none of the querulousness which sometimes comes with old age. He is given all sorts of good things to eat, and the children, who often climb on him, do not injure him in the least.

Dago's health is good, and he is in good condition, though he is not in the best of shape, and is not in the best of condition, making up for his age.

Yankee-Dago will enjoy his present ease of life until he may be called to something better in the place where many people believe good horses go.

Seaside's Proposed Ship Canal.

The city of Seattle, Wash., lies between salt water and a beautiful fresh water lake 20 miles long and 3 to 5 miles wide. The distance between the head of the lake and the city is 40 miles. Work has been begun on a ship canal to connect the two bodies of water.

The project is to be completed in 1896, and the cost is estimated at $7,000,000 and eastern capitalists have agreed to contribute $5,000,000 and western capitalists $2,000,000.

The project is to be completed in 1896, and the cost is estimated at $7,000,000 and eastern capitalists have agreed to contribute $5,000,000 and western capitalists $2,000,000.

The project is to be completed in 1896, and the cost is estimated at $7,000,000 and eastern capitalists have agreed to contribute $5,000,000 and western capitalists $2,000,000.

The project is to be completed in 1896, and the cost is estimated at $7,000,000 and eastern capitalists have agreed to contribute $5,000,000 and western capitalists $2,000,000.

Round Oak Stove.

Now is the time to buy heating stoves. The Round Oak is still in the lead. It is the only air tight stove on the market. The genuine ROUND OAK found only at Forbes & Bro. It heats more on less fuel than any stove made and will outlast a half dozen of the cheap imitations, Majestic Range.

We sold more majestic ranges last year than were ever sold before in the same time, and the reason they sell is because they are the best and most economical baker's made. The oven is the most important part of a cooking apparatus, the fire box is the digestive organ and the draft is the circulation. These organs in the Majestic are different from any stove or range made. The Majestic oven is the most sensitive, the fire box the most economical and the draft the simplest and most perfect.

In Buggies

we have this year far surpassed any previous year. Our stock was more carefully selected and was bought cheaper. Goods well bought are already half sold. Come and JOIN IN THE PROCESSION.

EMPIRE Wheat Drill.

Our Empire wheat drill still leads. They cannot down her.

Why?

Because she is the only force feed on the market. The Empire feed is the only one a farmer can rely on, and they know it.

So we sell more and more as the farmer finds out what is Fertilizer.

We have sold over half a million pounds of Armour, N. Western, Homestead and National Bone Meal, and want t more, so come in quick before all is gone.

Harness.

We have secured Mr. John S. Shalley in our Harness department, which he has improved in every point, and we have now the most complete stock ever carried in in the city.

TALBOT SADDLES Made to Order.

FORBES & BRO.

FORBES & BRO.

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

PUBLISHED TUESDAY AND FRIDAY, MORNINGS.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM.

SUBSCRIPTION $2 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

Local reading notices 20 cents per line. Special rates for news and general notices. Rates for standing advertisements furnished on application.

OFFICE 212 SOUTH MAIN STREET.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Governor—W. M. McRae.

For Lieutenant Governor—R. T. TYLER, of Fallon.

For Treasurer—R. C. BRADLEY, of May.

For Auditor—L. C. NORMAN, of Boone.

For Commissioner of Land Office—G. H. SWANSON, of Wolfe.

For Attorney General—W. H. HENDERSON, of Lexington.

For Secretary of State—HENRY V. HALE, of Graves.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. W. COOPER, of Madison.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—Ion B. NALL, of Louisville.

For Railroads—C. C. COOPER,

J. ELLIOTT DODD, of Hopkins.

Geo. H. ALEXANDER, of Jefferson.

GREEN R. KELLOGG, of Nicholas.

For Circuit Court Judge—L. C. LINN, of Calloway.

For Magistrate Penobscot District—W. M. PARKER.

SupplementalRegistration

At County Clerk's Office

Oct. 28, 29, 30

THE PASSING OF EX.-"MARSH HENRI."

Col. Frog Sticker, of the Bungtown Bugle, is not in it for refinement of thought, elegance of diction and dignity of expression, when compared with Col. Henrery Wotterson, beagard sir, of the Currier-Jurnal. Col. Sticker has, so far, contented himself with characterizing the bimetalists as "fanatics," but Col. Wotterson goes him one better and declares in one of his double-headed and long-eared editorials that people who want the Currier-Jurnal to "stuffy itself by affecting enthusiasm for a Democratic candidate" like Wm. Hardin, are idiots, fools, knaves and jabberwocks. Just think of it, he calls us jabberwocks. With 250,000 words in the English language, Col. Wotterson, beagard sir, must needs invent a word to express his contempt for Democrats who are unwilling to flop with him into John Sherman's camp and help him to make a Sherman's Raid on the money of the people. From his prudic position at the head of journalism in the South, Mr. Wotterson has descended to the methods of Sam Jones and delights to abuse, vilify and insult those whose ideas and opinions do not agree with the latest revision of his own peculiar views. Exasperated at his loss of influence and made desperate by the well-merited prodding he is getting every week from the "lunatics of the '95 press," the once great editor of the "New South," Louisville's negro organ, renounces Bradley and urges the negroes to scratch the ticket and vote for Pettit.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For granted, however, that it does pronouncedly affect a local disease, and pressed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall & Chapman Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Both of the Georgetown papers want the Kentucky Press Association to meet in that city next June, and the suggestion finds favor with all of the editors. A meeting in that lovely little city and an excursion to Niagara Falls would be the neatest program that could be arranged.

When President Bell gets up his executive committee let him do so with an eye to just such a meeting.

There was much Democratic oratory on tap yesterday in the State. Gen. Hardin spoke at Pikeville, Gov. McCrory at Maysville, Hon. R. T. Tyler at Paris, Hon. W. H. Hendrick at Cadiz, Capt. Stone at Hickman, Hon. D. G. Park at Bardwell, Hon. Geo. H. Alexander at Shelbyville, Hon. Jno. J. Rhee at Bedford, Hon. J. F. Dempsey at Brandenburg, and smaller fry at places too numerous to mention.

The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will not come off at Little Rock after all. Gov. Clarke has discovered that the alleged prize fighting law was never really passed, and steps have been taken to prevent the meeting.

That man Jeff, in Louisville, who is trying to get a divorce from his wife Malinda, because she misrepresented her age at the time of their marriage, has been rightfully beaten in court. According to his testimony, she palmed herself off upon him as a bud of 15 years, when, in truth, she had reached the ripe age of 40. Jeff must either be a sap or he must have been blinded by love when thus deceived. It is true that there are women of 40 who do not look more than half that age to an admirer; but there are few keen observers who would take them to be girls of 15.—Henderson Gleener.

The new governor of Kentucky will be inaugurated the fifth Tuesday of the election, which is Dec. 10.

THE NIGGER-LOVING POST.

The Evening Post, one of the Bradley organs at Louisville, in a two-column article, attempts to ridicule and deny the danger of negro domination in Kentucky, if Bradley should be elected. It is well for even such papers as this Benedict Arnold of Democracy to at least be truthful if they cannot be loyal and true to principle. The records of Garrard county show that Bill Bradley has voted for negroes and probably every man on the Republican ticket has done the same. In this county Mr. Breathitt, who wants to be circuit judge, has performed this humiliating act again and again, the last time less than a year ago. It cannot be denied that the Republican candidates are committed by their own acts to "negro rule" in offices of as much importance as register of the land office.

The Post makes this statement which is too false on its face to be considered a mere mistake from ignorance. It is wilfully and knowingly untrue:

"There have been bad negroes, and they have suffered for their misdeeds, but in Kentucky Democrats as well as Republicans to-day stand ready to testify that in Kentucky, where only 14 per cent. of the population is colored, there is absolutely not the slightest fear, not the remotest danger of any kind from the negroes under any circumstances whatever. To-day 40 per cent. of the county judges are Republican, yet there are no negro election officers or police officers, nor any suggestion that the Republican officers are any less careful of the dignity and peace of the Commonwealth than the Democratic judges."

The Democrats of Christian county can testify on this point. They have had "nigro domination" already until they have had enough. They have seen negroes elected to county offices more than once and the present coroner is a representative of the race the Post does not "fear." They have had negro magistrates and negro constables of the meanest character, who were run out of the county for crimes against the laws while still in office. They have had negro policemen to strut the streets of Hopkinsville and arrest white men. They have had negro census enumerators, and white men no better than negroes, sent into their homes to take the census for the government. They have had and still have negro election officers, often a majority of the officers at a polling place being mean and insolent negroes. These things have already been seen in counties like Christian cursed with a majority of negroes and their political associates, and they will be witnessed all over the state if the Post succeeds in its efforts to defeat the election of the Democratic ticket.

Already here in Hopkinsville there are Republican candidates for the apointive offices in one of the state's asylums, some of whom are negroes and others men who have voted for negroes.

There can never be, we admit, any continued domination of negroes in Kentucky, because the white people will not submit to it. There are respectable white Republicans who who longer respect their chameleon-like opinions. Good bye, "Marie Henri." You will soon disappear down the road that Dick Knott went.

By the way, it is a little early, but let us advise you as a friend who loves you in spite of your faults, not to run for delegate-at-large next year. The boys out in the brush are "laying for you." Better take that long promised trip to Europe, when the robins nest again. We love you, and for that reason we will chasten you, and chase you out of the convention if you try to work that "acclamation" racket on us next year. To use one of your own elegant expressions, "You have torn your pants."

That man Jeff, in Louisville, who is trying to get a divorce from his wife Malinda, because she misrepresented her age at the time of their marriage, has been rightfully beaten in court. According to his testimony, she palmed herself off upon him as a bud of 15 years, when, in truth, she had reached the ripe age of 40. Jeff must either be a sap or he must have been blinded by love when thus deceived. It is true that there are women of 40 who do not look more than half that age to an admirer; but there are few keen observers who would take them to be girls of 15.—Henderson Gleener.

The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will not come off at Little Rock after all. Gov. Clarke has discovered that the alleged prize fighting law was never really passed, and steps have been taken to prevent the meeting.

Christian county has not been brought to the waste basket by the ticket from Hardin down to Parker for magistrate.

Hardin will get votes in Christian county that haven't been brought out for the ticket. Watch out for Wat to lead the ticket.

Vote for every man on the Democratic ticket from Hardin down to Parker for magistrate.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Local reading notices 20 cents per line. Special rates for news and general notices. Rates for standing advertisements furnished on application.

OFFICE 212 SOUTH MAIN STREET.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Governor—W. M. McRae.

For Lieutenant Governor—R. T. TYLER, of Fallon.

For Treasurer—R. C. BRADLEY, of May.

For Auditor—L. C. NORMAN, of Boone.

For Commissioner of Land Office—G. H. SWANSON, of Wolfe.

For Attorney General—W. H. HENDERSON, of Lexington.

For Secretary of State—HENRY V. HALE, of Graves.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. W. COOPER, of Madison.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—Ion B. NALL, of Louisville.

For Railroads—C. C. COOPER,

J. ELLIOTT DODD, of Hopkins.

Geo. H. ALEXANDER, of Jefferson.

GREEN R. KELLOGG, of Nicholas.

For Circuit Court Judge—L. C. LINN, of Calloway.

For Magistrate Penobscot District—W. M. PARKER.

For Magistrate Pendleton, of Perry.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

NOTHING BUT NEWS FOUND IN THIS COLUMN.

A Condensed Account of the Latest Happenings Terribly Told for Busy Readers.

Edwin Fessler committed suicide at Louisville.

Major Rhineck of Covington, has been removed by the Democrats.

An earthquake shock was felt in the Black Hills Friday evening.

Gen. W. J. Landram died at Louisville Friday night.

The Southwestern Presbyterian Synod will meet next year at Bowling Green.

Col. L. R. Burns, a clothing merchant of Knoxville, committed suicide on account of business reverses.

Mrs. Henrietta Gregg, who attempted suicide by hanging in Nicholasville, died as the result.

Last week the gold reserve remained about stationary, the maximum amount being a little over $83,000,000.

Judge W. L. Jackson's condition is again such as to cause his friends much apprehension. He is circuit judge at Louisville.

Reuben A. Hemingray, a rehander, lost out in tobacco speculation and departed from Louisville leaving debts aggregating $10,000.

Judge W. H. Bruce has been appointed chief attorney of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company to succeed Russell Houston.

Hon. Chas. A. Board, ex-senator from Scott county, died at Georgetown Saturday of dropsy. He was a native of Union county.

At a mountain wedding on the Kentucky mountain border line the groom was sixty and the bride thirteen.

W. W. Taylor, the defaulting State Treasurer of South Dakota, will only have to serve two years, his sentence having been cut down by the Supreme Court.

Max Cohn, of the Great American Stock Company, dealers in clothing, has left Bowling Green for parts unknown and his creditors are mourning his departure.

BELL BOYS ON BICYCLES.

How Visitors Will Be Handled at the Atlanta Exposition.

Atlanta is a city of 110,000 people, and the calculation is that on great days during her exposition she will have to take care of that many more, says the Philadelphia Record. The committee in charge of public comfort, after careful consideration, has decided to adopt the system which was operated with success in Philadelphia during the centennial.

The control of this business will be held by the exposition company, and not let as a concession as at Chicago.

At Atlanta absolutely no charge will be made either to hotels, boarding houses, or to residents or to visitors for this service. On the first day of May an elaborate canvass was made of the city and suburbs, and every available room registered. The same work will be carried through the remaining time, for a distance of thirty or forty miles, and communion tickets will be put on by all of the roads, so that visitors seeing the fair during the day will be able to get out in the evening and return early the next morning. This will materially expand Atlanta's capacity for accommodating visitors.

All this information will be tabulated and sent broadcast over the country, and visitors from a distance will be encouraged to engage quarters in advance. In this way much of the work of public comfort will be done before.

During the exposition the public comfort headquarters will be opened at some central point in the city and active and experienced men will be placed in charge. A corps of messengers will be constantly in waiting, and every house on the list will be visited twice a day, and every vacant room will be reported. The managers of the bureau will be able to tell at any time exactly how many rooms are open, and to what location.

In short, the public comfort bureau will run the city, very much as a hotel is run, and bicycle messengers will take the place of bell boys.

How to Work a Bally Horse.

The subject matter under discussion was bally horses. John Miller, cashier of the Citizens' national bank of Big Run, had the floor. He said: "When I was a chunk of a boy my father had a bally horse which it occasionally fell to my lot to drive. It was a heart-rending experience and I often exhausted my patience and ingenuity in attempts to make him go. He would jog along all right on the level or down hill, but he would not go up hill. He would just stand. If you would kick him he would proceed to back. Finally I hit on a scheme. When I came to a hill I'd just牵 the brute around and whip him and he would back up the hill. When he turned the top I just turned him around and he would go down all right."

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Reported by TATUM, EMERY & CO.,
LIVE STOCK COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
BOURNON STOCK YARDS.

QUOTATIONS.

LOUISVILLE KY., Oct. 9.—Cattle—Receipts of cattle 279 and 81 calves. Shipments 172. Market ruled extremely dull throughout the day, and it was impossible to obtain Monday's price. A great many cattle left over, especially for a dull market the remainder of the week.

Hogs—Receipts 1623. Shipments 608. Market ruled slow, but about steady at yesterday's prices. Every thing sold readily at quotations. P. ospects look fair at about these prices.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 2161. Market ruled dull and 15¢ to 25¢ lower, especially on the coming grade.

Cattle—Extra shipping.

Light shipping.

Best butchers.

Fair.

Common to medium butchers.

Thin, round steers, cows and steers.

Carcasses.

Good to extra oxen.

Feeders.

Fatteners.

Butts.

Fair calves.

Cattle—Good to extra light.

Fair to good mutton.

Hogs—Choice packing and butchering.

Fair to good packing, 150 lb to 200 lb.

Good to extra light, 160 lb to 180 lb.

Fat steers, 120 lb to 150 lb.

Fat shanks, 100 lb to 120 lb.

Fat hams, 120 lb to 150 lb.

Common to medium hams.

Fat bacon.

Extra lamb—Kentucky lamb.

Fair to good—Tennessee.

Common to medium mutton.

Tail-ends or ends.

Resolutions.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Head of the Church to remove from our midst our beloved brother colporter, Deacon Julius Royal Winfree; therefore,

RESOLVED, That, while we grieve for the loss of his relationship, love and help, our grief is tempered by the blessed hope that in leaving us he has gone "to be with Christ, which is far better."

RESOLVED, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family of the deceased, and commend them for consolation to Him whose judgments are dealt by a loving hand.

RESOLVED, That a copy of the above preamble and resolutions be sent the family of the deceased, and also that they be published in the Hopkinsville New Era and the Kenrock and recorded in the minutes of the meeting.

Done by order of the church session:
CHAS. T. CASEY, Clerk.

A PENNY IN THE SLOT.

And Get a Prescription Telling You What Medicine to Buy.

Nickel-in-the-slot machines have been applied to many novel uses, but the queerest of all these catch-penny contrivances is one that gives you a prescription if you are sick and need one. These automatic doctors are of English origin, and at the present time may be found on street corners in many parts of London.

They are made of wood to the likeness of a man about half the size of the American cigar store Indian. He is unlike the Bancock Indian, however, in that he is full of holes. All over the body, head and limbs of the figure are slots for the reception of the penny fee charged for the prescription, and beneath the slot is the usual opening, from which the prescription issues after the penny has got in its final work.

These automata are the property of the London Automatic Prescription company, an incorporated concern which has among its shareholders not a few of the foremost physicians in London. At first a few of the automata were put out by way of experiment, and the mistake was made of placing them in the fashionable promenades, such as Rotten row, Petticoat lane and portions of the Strand. Here the swell chappies whetted their curiosity for a time by dropping pennies in the slots, and then the wooden physicians got to be a colossal joke.

In a short time, however, the automata were removed to the Whitechapel district, where they met with a generous patronage from the poorer classes. Of course, these figures do not dispense medicines, as there would be an insurmountable obstacle in the law. The prescription given by the figure for a penny is a good one, generally prescribing the standard remedy for ordinary complaints such as toothache, earache, headache, etc. Then there are antiseptic dressings for cuts and liniments for bruises, tonic for the hair, and salves for corns and bunions. In each case the prescription bears the name and business address of the apothecary whose shop is nearest to the automaton.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

The Dose in Store.

The following is a copy of the Civil Rights Law recently passed by the New York Legislature, with the prospect of being duplicated in Kentucky, if a Republican State ticket and Legislature are elected next month:

GENERAL—ALL COUNTIES.

(Five folios.)

[Even though unless a different time shall be prescribed therein, shall not effect until the twentieth day after it shall have become a law—Section 43, article II, chapter 8, General Laws.]

CHAP. 1042.

AN ACT to protect all citizens in their rights and franchises.

Became a law June 15, 1890, with the approval of the Governor. Passed.

three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in the Senate and General Assembly, do enact as follows:

Sec. 1. That all persons within the jurisdiction of this state shall be entitled to the full protection of the law.

vantages, accommodations, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, hotels, eating houses, bath houses, barber shops, theatres, music halls, public conveyances on land and water, and all other places of public amusement, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law, and applicable alike to all citizens.

Sec. 2. That any person who shall violate any of the provisions of the foregoing section by denying to any citizens, except for reasons applicable alike to all citizens of every race and color, the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges in said section enumerated, or by aiding or inciting such denial, shall for every such offense forfeit and pay a sum not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, to the poor aggrieved thereby, to be expended in the maintenance of the poor in the county in which jurisdiction in the county where said offense was committed, and shall, also, for every such offense, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than thirty days, nor more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 3. That no citizen of the State possessing all other qualifications which are or may be prescribed by law shall be disqualified to serve as grand or petit juror in any court of this State, on account of his race or color, or any person charged with any duty in the selection or summoning of jurors, who shall exclude or fail to summon any citizen for the cause aforesaid shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment not less than thirty days, nor more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State—ss.

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

JOHN PALMER,
Secretary of State.

If the voters of Kentucky look upon the above law as a desirable one for the Commonwealth they will put their cross under the negro cabin. If otherwise they will place their mark under the rooster.

They are made of wood to the likeness of a man about half the size of the American cigar store Indian.

He is unlike the Bancock Indian, however, in that he is full of holes. All over the body, head and limbs of the figure are slots for the reception of the penny fee charged for the prescription, and beneath the slot is the usual opening, from which the prescription issues after the penny has got in its final work.

These automata are the property of the London Automatic Prescription company, an incorporated concern which has among its shareholders not a few of the foremost physicians in London. At first a few of the automata were put out by way of experiment, and the mistake was made of placing them in the fashionable promenades, such as Rotten row, Petticoat lane and portions of the Strand. Here the swell chappies whetted their curiosity for a time by dropping pennies in the slots, and then the wooden physicians got to be a colossal joke.

In a short time, however, the automata were removed to the Whitechapel district, where they met with a generous patronage from the poorer classes. Of course, these figures do not dispense medicines, as there would be an insurmountable obstacle in the law. The prescription given by the figure for a penny is a good one, generally prescribing the standard remedy for ordinary complaints such as toothache, earache, headache, etc. Then there are antiseptic dressings for cuts and liniments for bruises, tonic for the hair, and salves for corns and bunions. In each case the prescription bears the name and business address of the apothecary whose shop is nearest to the automaton.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

N. Y. World.

Resembles Queen Victoria.

Mrs. George H. Peters, a charming elderly lady of Boston, has had imported a handsome cabinet carriage similar to that used by Queen Victoria. Mrs. Peters resembles her majesty in her personal appearance, and when on the road attracts considerable attention.

N. Y. World.

NOT TIRED OF FIGHTING.
Japan is Taking a Rest Before Undertaking Fresh Wars.

Every one feels that the peace is only a full in a storm which will presently rage all the more furiously, says the London News. Russia is now the object of Japanese hatred, and little attempt is made to conceal the fact. "Against Russia, Germany and France, even the greatest jingo admits Japan is helpless. But it is quite otherwise with Russia single-handed." All ranks and classes are confident that they can punish Russia. Russia is inviting attack. "Her ships move about prepared for action, with all possible workmen ready and the guns prepared to open fire." This is the news that in Korea Russian intrigue has completely foiled Japan. The Japanese agent already finds himself a cipher and is coming home. The Japanese, however, will not resign Korea without a fight. If Russia actually occupies the peninsula hostilities will begin. As the troops return from the Liaotung peninsula they are being hurriedly sent north, ready, should war result, to be landed in Korea. "It would be no child's play for Russia," says the Daily News writer. "In ironclads she is superior, but the greater speed of the Japanese cruisers would give them a great advantage and prevent Russia from forcing a pitched naval battle." Guns strained during the recent fights are being replaced and the boilers cleaned and the engines overhauled.

"Another month Japan will be ready for her formidable foe." Clearly we are only at the beginning of things in the far east.

FIFTH ANNUAL FAIR

OF THE
CHRISTIAN COUNTY FAIR CO.
(incorporated.)

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

OCTOBER 17th.

OCTOBER 18th.

OCTOBER 19th.

1895.

LIBERAL PREMIUMS

In All Departments.

Three SPEED RINGS
Each Day.

Admission - - - 25c.

M. V. DULIN,
President.J. B. GALBREATH,
Secretary.GETTING COLD
And Going to Get Colder!You Will Want One of Our Lap Robes
To Keep Warm!43¢ EACH. What!
Why LAP ROBES, Of Course!

4 DOZEN AT 43¢ Until they are Gone! Always Sold For $1 Before!

HORSE BLANKETS of Every Description.

F. A. YOST & CO.,
No. 18 Ninth St.

OPENING.

 ON **

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY,

OCT. 10

If you want to see the LARGEST and MOST BEAUTIFUL

STOCK OF DRY GOODS

Ever placed on exhibition in this city, attend the opening of

RICHARDS & CO. *

A WORD
TO THE WISE

About our line of Fall Clothing

we feel sure will be appreciated by all lovers of good dress

IS SUFFICIENT

to insure a visit from you.

COX & BOULWARE.

Man. This is an opportunity that he will not miss. We feel confident in the assertion that not a house in "Kentucky" can show a finer line of Clothing, Hats and Furnishings.

We feel that the above

PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE
pure Grape Cream of Tatar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paragoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons? Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of D. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

GENIUS AND MARRIAGE.

Mrs. Burnett Is the Latest unhappy "Literary Woman."

She Earned the Family Money for Many Years and Then Forgot to Look Up to Her Husband—Other Matrimonial Failures.

Frances Hodgson Burnett is the latest woman to add proof to the theory that genius on the feminine side of the family does not make a happy home. "Incompatibility of temper" is the sad excuse given when homes like hers are broken up.

It has never been known to fall when a woman's power of earning money is greater than that of her husband that breakers are ahead, and it is an irrefutable law of nature that she should be the weaker of the two. The husband who marries a poor man has the advantage of him in a certain way, but the woman who earns the family money possesses an advantage gigantic in comparison and as impossible to overlook or deny if it is even tangible.

No woman, woman, says the Chicago News, relishes being married to a man to whom she cannot look up in all respects and whom she does not feel superior to her in many ways. Females may have a certain amount of tact that they don't after this stern fact out. And when a woman discovers that she has much more talent and a larger head for business than her husband there is going to creep into her heart first surprise, then pity and then carelessness contempt. A man who is not the equal of a wife in the eyes of Mrs. Burnett is as talents as she, though in a different direction. Dr. Swann M. Burnett is one of the leading occultists of the country. To be sure, his wife paid for his education in this direction with her inheritance, but that was a discredit, understood one another. Mrs. Burnett has lived in Europe most of the time for the last few years, and when she returned her husband were only formally polynomially of spirit seemed entirely wanting.

Other literary women have shared the same experience. John Oliver Hobbes, the English writer, otherwise known as Mrs. Craigie, has just seen a divorce because she was unable to maintain her life. Gossip noted her that she is going to marry George Moore, the novelist, with whom she has collaborated in several stories. One would think that she was leaving out the best part of the briars doing this, for two genuine girls as bad as arms in the wanton of whom they can wreak. The artistic and literary instincts produce in a person a sort of irrationalism, a restless, unpredictable, tender nerves and a large demand for sympathetic tolerance. She can't help it, and it is unable to give this a husband of like temperament is more than apt to refuse to give it.

it. Women of genius usually have checkered lives. George Eliot, with her strong intellect and knowledge of cause and effect, was not proof against the matrimonial fate of literary women, as her various wedded and unwedded experiences show.

We have had a preface of what would follow if she married, and so wisely stayed single. Can anyone imagine Ouida married? Much as she stoutly admires men, she could never make one happy. He would shoot himself or get married somehow when he got married, and then start a bickerish, whistling, devilish, sarcastic eloquence, poured forth all for his benefit. Eloquence of that sort is admirable on paper and directed in an opposite line, but when there is a hint of the personal in it there is trouble. The Ouidas have a predilection for frying potatoes following on a cayalum in the kitchen; Ouida moaning over an unreachableness or musing on the turning possibilities in a worn gown; Ouida mixing a salad with a sharp knife on a plate, etc., etc.—oh, no! it is impossible to conceive.

It is not charitable to advise geniuses to stay single, for they need the fullest of life to expand in and in which to spread their minds; yet the history of the matrimonial tangles is a history of the divorces.

Those who are talented are as unfortunate as they are. A little American actress, who was married to a prominent writer of plays, threw up her hands when her divorce was mentioned. "Yes," she cried, "I am a little actress, but I am My dear, whatever you do, never marry a genius!" Her dramatic emphasis was sufficient to express poor Jane Carlyle's unspoken thought and Harriet Shelleys' and that of Shakespeare's neglected wife and their innumerable sisters. When the genius is on the female side of a wife the result is worse.

Desert Eve Has Her Life.

A Spanish mathematician, figuring out the average allowance of robes, illness, and the like, says a man thirty years of age has only really lived about fourteen or fifteen years.

Study and Physical Exercise.

Three hours of close study wear out the body more than a whole day of close physical exertion.

A Charitable Spirit.

Awkward Spouse—I see our set is to have a grand charity ball. Did you ever dance for charity?

Pretty Wife—Of course. Don't you remember how I used to take pity on you and dance with you when we first met?—N. Y. Times.

The Same Thing.

Fogg—it always makes me smile to read Wood's jokes.

Figg—Should I say they are well calculated to drive a man to drink.

Fogg—isn't that what I said?—Boston Transcript.

True to His Instincts.

"And you will never forget me?" asked the summer resort girl of her lover, the dry goods clerk.

"Never," she said, absently. "Is there anything more to-day?"—Detroit Free Press.

Right Kind of Landlady.

"Have you got a good landlady?"

"First-rate. He brought me seven dollars last week that didn't belong to me, besides my own, and they were all mine."—Fifth—Finder.

Completely Cowed.

Hoax—There goes a man who once took the nerve completely out of me. Joe—What is he, a fighter?

Hoax—No, a dentist.—Philadelphia Record.

The Curse of It.

"So she's the English widow's wife? I never thought he would marry her. How did it happen—money?"

"No; propinquity."—Judge.

BENEVOLENT ROYALTY.

Bavaria's Outlet Duke and His Beautiful Wife.

Three Eye Hospitals Are Now Maintained by the Royal Courts—Schloss Tegegers, the second of the celebrated royal outlet, Duke Carl Theodor of Bavaria, on April 29, 1874.

The third of six beautiful and palatial states, Princess Marie Josephine of Braganza, became the second of the celebrated royal outlet, Duke Carl Theodor of Bavaria, on April 29, 1874.

No married life could be more simple than that led by Duke and Duchess of Bavaria, surrounded by their five children, and two sons—Princess Sophie, born in 1876; Princess Elizabeth, 1876; Princess Marie, 1878; Prince Ludwig Wilhelm, in 1880; and Prince Franz Joseph, the godson of the emperor of Austria on April 29, 1880.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

The duke and duchess, says the Gentlewoman, lead a very busy, useful life, for the duke has no less than three eye hospitals under his charge, which he himself founded, the principal and favorite of which is the royal schloss at Tegegers, in Bavaria. The others are at Munich and Meran, at all of which places he spends a part of the year with his family. His royal highness performs the operations very easily in the morning, (in summer at half past six) and has his patients assisted by the duchess, who takes the greatest interest in her husband's work, and who is herself a very skillful trained nurse. He also sees all patients early in the morning, and, as may be imagined, has his hands upon him almost with worship, and his equal admiration for the beautiful duchess.

We
Are Rushing
Things.

Everybody who has to do with this store's doings is working with a will. With the stars of another season upon us, the same wide-awake stockkeeping (the kind you like) again takes us to the head of the procession.

Will
You
See
The
NEW STYLES?

The latest in fabrics and fashions are here for your approval. An hour spent among these beautiful styles will bring out that beautiful new dress. Won't you come while the bloom is on these fabric beauties.

The
New Coats
And Capes
Are Here.

Bassett & Co.

PERSONAL GOSPISS.

Mr. S. T. Edmunds continues to improve.

Miss Ida Dixon, of Garrettsburg, is visiting the Misses Royal.

Miss Fannie Boyd, of Howell, is the guest of Miss Mary McCulloch.

Miss Alice Mitchell, of Madisonville, is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Jessie White, of Cadiz, is the guest of the Misses Rust, on South Main.

Mrs. W. L. Fowlkes, of near Clarksville, is visiting the family of Mr. O. D. Thompson this week.

Miss Annie Buckner has returned to her home in Clarksville, after a short visit to Miss Willis Rust.

Mrs. F. G. Peacher, who spent the summer with Mrs. E. M. Carney, left East Friday for her home in Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hurst, of Clarksville, returned home yesterday, after a visit of several days to their daughter, Mrs. A. L. Peeler.

Miss Ella Pavey, of Woosock, Canada, returned here with her aunt, Mrs. McCall, and will attend school at Bethel Female College.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and increased health—personal enjoyment which rightly used. The many who live better in others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly using the world's best products to add to their welfare, will attest to the health of pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refined and easily digestible properties of a perfect laxative: effectually cleansing the system, expelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It is given as a medicine, and meets with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists, $1.00 a bottle, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if ordered.

HERE AND THERE.

McLean & Head, of Blackford, on the C. V. have assigned.

"Oh! I don't know what to give my friends for a wedding present. Let me solve the problem for you."

* oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN.

Marion Dukes had opened a store at Wright's bridge near Mannington. Up-stairs rooms, suitable for any purpose, for rent by Oct. 8. W. A. WILGUS,

Cooper & Co.'s circus exhibits in Guthrie Thursday.

What can be nicer as a wedding present than Japanese tableware at * oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN?

The foundations of the Ragsdale, Cooper & Co. block are ready for the brick work to begin.

Dr. E. N. Fruitt, Dentist, office over City Bank, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Beautiful fall weather for fair week, if it will just continue.

Insure your tobacco barns with Long & Kelly.

For Rent—A very desirable dwelling on South Virginia street, 8 rooms, large shady yard. W. W. WARE.

Dynamite had to be used at last to split the big elm tree stump into pieces small enough to move them from the Montgomery house lot. It cost the contractor about $50 to dig up the stump and get it out of the way.

The celebrated Diamond coal for sale by H. M. Dalton, cor. 13th and R. H. sts. Phone 112. Oct 11,26

Elbert Turner will leave in the morning for Hopkinsville, intending to make the trip on a bicycle.—Mayfield Democrat.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Mr. Barbour Blakemore, who is a student at South Kentucky College, received a telegram Friday morning, announcing the sudden death of his father at Paris, Tenn. The young man left at once for his home.

Get your tobacco barns insured with Long & Kelly.

Wanted to borrow, $1000 on real estate in the county. Inquire at this office.

Dr. Andrew Seargent has sold his handsome brick residence on North Main to Mr. Wm. Johnson, who will take possession Jan. 1 and move to the city to live.

To the City Coal Company for coal.

E. L. BLAKEMORE,
Gus H. Moore.

Born to the wife of Mr. Burr Harlow, on Oct. 12, a fine boy.

He's not regaled with dainty skins or ruffles, but after a while they'll fit him.

But after a while they'll fit him, if he's truly coined after his dad.

K.

For Rent—the Tandy cottage on the corner of Clay and 16th. Newly painted and papered and in thorough repair. Inquire here.

Mr. Porter Peyton brought into this office yesterday the sun enough "biggest pumpkin" of the season. It measures 5½ feet around. Mr. Peyton has some a great deal larger, but he couldn't get one of the big ones in his buggy.

For Sale—phæton, and pony, at this office.

Messrs. Gaither & West, who are building the large new warehouse spoken of in our columns, will move from their present quarters in the Latham warehouse. The new building is rendered necessary by the growth in their business and they will occupy both buildings next year, retaining their office at the present stand.

Acme Ready Mixed Paints at Elgin's. * oct11,26

Now that the Sam Jones meeting is over, you will have to get down to regular housekeeping. You will want some of those Nudavene Flakes, Sweet Hams, fresh Cakes, Saratoga Chips, Cabbage and other things to tickle your palate at Willis' Grocery.

From all over the country the reports are that the corn crop is the poorest for years.

For tobacco barn insurance see Long & Kelly.

The indications are that W. L. Parker, the Democratic nominee for magistrate in the Pembroke district, will have no opposition. Capt. Fruitt, the present Republican appointee, is not a candidate for election.

The wedding of Mr. Alex. S. Cox and Miss Bettie Boulware, at the Christian Church Thursday evening, will be public to their friends in this city. Invitations were sent to out-of-town parties only.

Mr. W. C. Wright was called to Cincinnati Sunday by a telegram announcing the sudden death of his mother.

FOR RENT.

Store house for 1896. Best location in Hopkinsville. Rent reasonable. Apply to E. Frankel.

Oct. 8. 4. Miss MAY BLOMESTEIN.

HERE AND THERE.

McLean & Head, of Blackford, on the C. V. have assigned.

"Oh! I don't know what to give my friends for a wedding present. Let me solve the problem for you."

* oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN.

Marion Dukes had opened a store at Wright's bridge near Mannington. Up-stairs rooms, suitable for any purpose, for rent by Oct. 8. W. A. WILGUS,

Cooper & Co.'s circus exhibits in Guthrie Thursday.

What can be nicer as a wedding present than Japanese tableware at * oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN?

The foundations of the Ragsdale, Cooper & Co. block are ready for the brick work to begin.

Dr. E. N. Fruitt, Dentist, office over City Bank, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Beautiful fall weather for fair week, if it will just continue.

Insure your tobacco barns with Long & Kelly.

For Rent—A very desirable dwelling on South Virginia street, 8 rooms, large shady yard. W. W. WARE.

Dynamite had to be used at last to split the big elm tree stump into pieces small enough to move them from the Montgomery house lot. It cost the contractor about $50 to dig up the stump and get it out of the way.

The celebrated Diamond coal for sale by H. M. Dalton, cor. 13th and R. H. sts. Phone 112. Oct 11,26

Elbert Turner will leave in the morning for Hopkinsville, intending to make the trip on a bicycle.—Mayfield Democrat.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Mr. Barbour Blakemore, who is a student at South Kentucky College, received a telegram Friday morning, announcing the sudden death of his father at Paris, Tenn. The young man left at once for his home.

Get your tobacco barns insured with Long & Kelly.

Wanted to borrow, $1000 on real estate in the county. Inquire at this office.

Dr. Andrew Seargent has sold his handsome brick residence on North Main to Mr. Wm. Johnson, who will take possession Jan. 1 and move to the city to live.

To the City Coal Company for coal.

E. L. BLAKEMORE,
Gus H. Moore.

Born to the wife of Mr. Burr Harlow, on Oct. 12, a fine boy.

He's not regaled with dainty skins or ruffles, but after a while they'll fit him.

But after a while they'll fit him, if he's truly coined after his dad.

K.

For Rent—the Tandy cottage on the corner of Clay and 16th. Newly painted and papered and in thorough repair. Inquire here.

Mr. Porter Peyton brought into this office yesterday the sun enough "biggest pumpkin" of the season. It measures 5½ feet around. Mr. Peyton has some a great deal larger, but he couldn't get one of the big ones in his buggy.

For Sale—phæton, and pony, at this office.

Messrs. Gaither & West, who are building the large new warehouse spoken of in our columns, will move from their present quarters in the Latham warehouse. The new building is rendered necessary by the growth in their business and they will occupy both buildings next year, retaining their office at the present stand.

Acme Ready Mixed Paints at Elgin's. * oct11,26

Now that the Sam Jones meeting is over, you will have to get down to regular housekeeping. You will want some of those Nudavene Flakes, Sweet Hams, fresh Cakes, Saratoga Chips, Cabbage and other things to tickle your palate at Willis' Grocery.

From all over the country the reports are that the corn crop is the poorest for years.

For tobacco barn insurance see Long & Kelly.

The indications are that W. L. Parker, the Democratic nominee for magistrate in the Pembroke district, will have no opposition. Capt. Fruitt, the present Republican appointee, is not a candidate for election.

The wedding of Mr. Alex. S. Cox and Miss Bettie Boulware, at the Christian Church Thursday evening, will be public to their friends in this city. Invitations were sent to out-of-town parties only.

Mr. W. C. Wright was called to Cincinnati Sunday by a telegram announcing the sudden death of his mother.

FOR RENT.

Store house for 1896. Best location in Hopkinsville. Rent reasonable. Apply to E. Frankel.

Oct. 8. 4. Miss MAY BLOMESTEIN.

HERE AND THERE.

McLean & Head, of Blackford, on the C. V. have assigned.

"Oh! I don't know what to give my friends for a wedding present. Let me solve the problem for you."

* oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN.

Marion Dukes had opened a store at Wright's bridge near Mannington. Up-stairs rooms, suitable for any purpose, for rent by Oct. 8. W. A. WILGUS,

Cooper & Co.'s circus exhibits in Guthrie Thursday.

What can be nicer as a wedding present than Japanese tableware at * oct11,26 L. L. ELGIN?

The foundations of the Ragsdale, Cooper & Co. block are ready for the brick work to begin.

Dr. E. N. Fruitt, Dentist, office over City Bank, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Beautiful fall weather for fair week, if it will just continue.

Insure your tobacco barns with Long & Kelly.

For Rent—A very desirable dwelling on South Virginia street, 8 rooms, large shady yard. W. W. WARE.

Dynamite had to be used at last to split the big elm tree stump into pieces small enough to move them from the Montgomery house lot. It cost the contractor about $50 to dig up the stump and get it out of the way.

The celebrated Diamond coal for sale by H. M. Dalton, cor. 13th and R. H. sts. Phone 112. Oct 11,26

Elbert Turner will leave in the morning for Hopkinsville, intending to make the trip on a bicycle.—Mayfield Democrat.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process. Office over Bassett & Co.*

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.

Men and women desiring pleasant paying employment can get it by addressing G. D. FAZ, Clarksville, Tenn.

Dr. A. P. Campbell has resumed his practice and also has secured the right to extract teeth by the painless process.

John Tanner, living near White Plains, had his entire crop of tobacco destroyed by fire one day last week.